The Power in Us.

Dear Penfabricans,

At times, we take ourselves for granted. We fail to recognize the power inherent in us. We think lowly of our capabilities. We are blind to the power in us.

Most times, when others are confronted with difficulties, all that is needed from us is a few gentle and kind words of support, encouragement, a loving glance or a smile of approval. However, such tender care is often neglected and overlooked by us. We do not think much of giving support in terms of gestures of encouragement. We tend to leave it to others to perform or just perish.

Passion speaks volumes. When we are passionate about people or a task at hand, we seem to have accomplished half of the task already. Be very concerned about the people surrounding us. Show our care and passion to motivate and inspire them even in the midst of our daily tussles with time.

Dear Penfabricans, exhibit the power in us by showering our approval and support on our peers and people we come into contact with. Show our tenderness to our struggling friends.

Have a great weekend. Never postpone the chance to radiate the power in all of us.

Thank you.

With kind regards,

HSTeh.
